- ❖ A lecture entitled Feminism (its genesis, feminist theory, its significance and sociopolitical impact, was delivered by Dr. S.G. Puri, Assistant Professor, Department of English and MEL, University of Lucknow, Lucknow on Nov. 26, 2015 to the students of MA. English.
- ❖ An inter-disciplinary lecture on Kalidasa's Abhigyan Shakuntalam was delivered by Dr. Prachi Agarwal, Head/Incharge, Department of Sanskrit, M.M. College, Modinagar on Dec. 10, 2015 to the students of M.A. (English) and M.A. (Sanskrit).
- ❖ On Dec. 22, 2015, Dr. Bulbul Gupta, Assistant Professor, Department of English delivered a lecture using audio-video aids on Svetlana Alexievich, Nobel laureate in Literature 2015 in an attempt to acquaint the students of MA. (English) with the Nobel Laureate, her personality and her works.

I am drawn to that small space called a human being... a single individual In reality, that is where everything happens.

These words of Svetlana Alexievich, Nobel Laureate in Literature 2015 strike the keynote of the spirit and essence of the moment - the close of the year 2015. Very much like at the close of an event or at the close of a journey, at the close of 2015 too the human mind and soul instinctively reverts, looks back on the path traversed, and experiences a gamut of thoughts and emotions. The successes and the failures. The joys and the sorrows. The gains and the losses. The promises kept and those broken. The deadlines met and those missed. The dreams realized and those shattered. Undoubtedly, the close of 2015 brings in its wake reflection and retrospection; it spells re-visiting one's endeavours and motives; it inspires re-evaluation of one's potential and aims, and it compels reconsideration of one's plans and strategies. The close of 2015 and the beginning of 2016 thus marks revival, rejuvenation and reconnection of a human being with his/her 'self, that human being that Svetlana, the Noble Laureate so aptly believed in and emphasized upon, and that, who, with his/her thoughts, feelings and deeds sends ripples (negative or positive, constructive or destructive... is a matter of personal choice) across the neighbourhood, society, nation, and world at large.
